

NATURE OF INNOVATION

NOI TECHPARK - HARD FACTS

NOI Techpark is South Tyrol's innovation district. Here, companies, institutes and the university find a stimulating surrounding to collaborate on research and development projects.

NOI stands for Nature of Innovation. An acronym that reflects our core and our strategic positioning. Inspired by nature, adapted to change, we rethink established patterns and create new solutions for the benefit of people and nature.

Currently, 77 companies, 35 start-ups, 3 research institutes, 4 university faculties and a total of 2,400 people are working together for sustainable progress. The ever-expanding infrastructure of 70 laboratories and prototype workshops, offices, co-working spaces and academic areas makes it possible. The aim? To create space for ideas and make South Tyrol a strategic hub for innovation.

MISSION

NOI Techpark is where companies, universities and research institutes come to work together. Our services are aimed at all those who conduct research and development in South Tyrol. The main contributors are the companies – from high-tech companies to SMEs with technology potential to innovative start-ups. We support them, connect them with the academic and scientific world and provide them with access to research partners, research infrastructure and EU funding. Throughout various phases of development, we are transforming the site into an innovation hub and bringing it to life with services for businesses and a tailor-made arts and culture programme for everyone.

VISION

We choose to be one of Europe's leading next generation science and technology parks, to serve best our territory and its companies, Europe's values and the planet's future.
